Full Due Process Representation

I handle your due process case from the first record review through the hearing officer's decision.

> A due process complaint asks an impartial hearing officer to resolve a disagreement with your school district about your child's special education.

WHAT I DO

1. Review the records and build your case.
2. Write and file your complaint.
3. Handle communications with the district and its lawyer.
4. Prepare the evidence and witnesses, and represent you at the hearing.

I keep you informed throughout. The big decisions, including whether to settle, remain yours.

WHAT IT COSTS

$3,000
to get started.

$2,000
only if your case goes to a hearing.

$5,000
is the most you'll pay toward my attorney's fees for this case.

Outside costs, such as an expert witness, are separate and require your written approval first.

GETTING YOUR CONTRIBUTION BACK

If we prevail, the law allows a court to order the district to pay reasonable attorney's fees. I pursue full fee recovery from the district.

When the district pays my fees in full, I refund your entire attorney-fee contribution—up to $5,000. Your net attorney-fee cost is then $0.
